Expertise

Syntax, semantics, computational linguistics, grammatical theory and the syntax-semantics interface (especially Lexical Functional Grammar and Glue Semantics), pragmatics, (critical) discourse analysis, language & gender, language & sexuality.

Academic employment

01/11/2024–present Associate Professor (Førsteamanuensis) in Linguistics, University of Oslo.

01/04/2021–31/10/2024 Postdoctoral Researcher (Postdoktor) in Computational Semantics, University of Oslo.

01/10/2019–31/03/2021 Departmental Lecturer in Syntax, University of Oxford.

01/10/2019–30/09/2020 Stipendiary Lecturer in Linguistics, Jesus College, University of Oxford.

01/10/2018–30/09/2019 Stipendiary Lecturer in Linguistics, St Hugh's College, University of Oxford.

Education

11/10/2015–06/05/2019 D.Phil. in Comparative Philology & General Linguistics.
University of Oxford.
THESIS TITLE: Multiword expressions and the lexicon [pdf].
SUPERVISORS: Ash Asudeh, Mary Dalrymple. EXAMINERS: Stephen Pulman, Tom Wasow.

09/10/2012–30/06/2014 M.Phil. (with distinction) in General Linguistics & Comparative Philology.
University of Oxford.
THESIS TITLE: The prepositional passive: a Lexical Functional account [pdf].
SUPERVISOR: Mary Dalrymple.

01/09/2011–06/12/2011 Graduate Programme in Linguistics.
McGill University.
Attended for one semester. GPA 3.92.

09/10/2007–30/06/2011 B.A. (with First Class Honours) in Modern Languages (French) & Linguistics.
University of Oxford.

Teaching qualifications

05/12/2017 SEDA-PDF Supporting Learning award.
Mapped to Descriptor 1 of the UK Professional Standards Framework: equivalent to Associate Fellow of the Higher Education Academy. My portfolio submission is available online here.

Other professional experience

01/12/2019–31/03/2021 Outreach & Access Officer, Faculty of Linguistics, Philology & Phonetics, University of Oxford.
Responsible for local and national outreach to schools, and organising the UNIQ summer school in linguistics.

01/07/2012–01/10/2018 Linguistic Consultant, Freelance.
Expert consultancy services in and around general linguistics and NLP. This involved data annotation, resource mining and compilation, data analysis, and creative copywriting. I worked with researchers at the University of Oxford and at Queen Mary University London, as well as with private enterprises such as TheySay Analytics.

01/12/2014–30/09/2015 Part-time Research Assistant, Oxford English Dictionary, Oxford University Press.

Research experience

Note: My publications and talks are given on pp. 7ff. This section gives details of two recent projects, with (clickable) cross-references to related publications and talks.

Universal natural language understanding [semantics, computational linguistics]

PROJECT OVERVIEW: This Research Council of Norway-funded project aims to develop and implement a rule-based semantic interpretation system, built on the language-agnostic Universal Dependencies syntactic framework, and using Glue Semantics as the syntax-semantics interface. We are building a highly modular system, where the core predicate-argument analysis relies solely on information available from the UD parse, and can therefore be applied to any language for which a UD parser exists. Additional language-specific resources (such as valency lexica or word-sense databases) can then be used in addition if they exist, but are not required.

MY ROLE: I am a post-doctoral researcher on this project, working under the P.I. Dag T. T. Haug. I am jointly responsible with the P.I. for developing the rules used in translating the syntactic parse into semantic resources, and for managing and training annotators who we use to generate gold-standard data from existing UD corpora. I also work on developing theoretical insights about the syntax-semantics interface from our experience with implementing analyses of a wide range of phenomena.

OUTPUTS: The project pipeline is presented in [16]. We have also produced a corpus of naturally-ocurring texts with semantic annotations, called DRASTIC [15]. Our more theoretical outputs include a paper exploring the inadequacies of existing quasi-semantic extensions to UD [19], one developing a new theoretical approach to handling scope islands in Glue Semantics and LFG [18], and one introducing a syntax-semantics interface for Dependency Grammar [17].

Multiword expressions and the lexicon [syntax, semantics]

PROJECT OVERVIEW: This was my D.Phil. project, funded by the UK Arts and Humanities Research Council. My thesis [1] gives an analysis of multiword expressions (MWEs), especially idioms. It argues against approaches which conceive of idioms like spill the beans as being made up of special versions of spill and beans, and in favour of approaches which reaffirm the mixed nature of MWEs as partially word-like and partially phrase-like. It then develops a concrete example of the latter kind of theory, integrating insights from Tree-Adjoining Grammar into the Lexical Functional Grammar architecture.

MY ROLE: I was solely responsible for this project from conception to completion, under the supervision of my D.Phil. supervisors, Ash Asudeh and Mary Dalrymple. I developed the research proposal, disseminated the work through presentations and publications, and successfully applied for additional research funding, including for a research visit to Germany.

OUTPUTS: I have presented this work at peer-reviewed conferences for computational linguists [50], theoretical syntacticians [48], and for more general linguistics audiences [46]. The work has also appeared in the proceedings of two of these conferences [21], [22]. I organised a collaboration with researchers at the Goethe-Universität Frankfurt am Main, where I conducted a research visit in June 2018. This resulted in a series of presentations and an ongoing research collaboration [3], [29], [43], [44], [57]. My formal proposals for integrating LFG and TAG appear in a chapter in the Handbook of Lexical Functional Grammar [6], and the theoretical import of this for LFG (viewed as a formalisation of Construction Grammar) is discussed in a paper in the Journal of Language Modelling [5].

Teaching

At the undergraduate level, I have created and (co-)led courses in general linguistics, syntax, semantics & pragmatics, sociolinguistics, psycholinguistics, and historical linguistics.

At the graduate level, I have created and led courses in (computational) syntax and formal approaches to sociolinguistic variation, as well as TA-ing for courses in syntax, phonology, and formal foundations of linguistics (an introduction to set theory, logic, and formal language theory for linguists).

My teaching experience covers small group and tutorial settings, larger classes, and lectures, and includes both curriculum development and the setting & marking of exams.

Qualifications: I hold a SEDA-PDF Supporting Learning award (see above for details).

In this section, years refer to the academic calendar (e.g. 2017 = the 2017/18 academic year).

Summer schools

European Summer School in Logic, Language and Information (ESSLLI2025)

2025 An introduction to Glue Semantics: theoretical and computational perspectives (classes – group size: ~12)
Taught jointly with Mark-Matthias Zymla. Course materials available here.

University of Oslo

Graduate level

As primary instructor

2025 Computational Lexical Functional Grammar (classes – group size: 8)
[LING4170: Linguistics specialization on structure and form]

2023 Formal approaches to sociolinguistic variation (seminars – group size: 12)
[LING4130: Linguistics specialization on variation]

As guest lecturer

2024–2025 Linguistic method (lecture – group size: ~20)
[LING4140: Språkvitenskapelig metode] – lectures on 'Modelling in the language sciences' and 'Corpus linguistics'.

2024 Grammatical relations in linguistic theory (lecture – group size: 4)
[LING4130: Linguistics Specialization on variation] – lecture on Lexical Functional Grammar.

Undergraduate level

As primary instructor

2024 Semantics and pragmatics 2 (classes – group size: ~10)
[LING2100: Semantikk og pragmatikk 2] – An introduction to formal semantics & pragmatics.

As joint primary instructor

2025 Linguistic theories (classes – group size: ~12)
[LING2200: Lingvistiske teorier] – 2 classes on formal language theory.

2021, 2023 Psycholinguistics and sociolinguistics (lectures – group size: ~20).
[LING1113: Psykolingvistikk og sosiolingvistikk]

2022 Language change (lectures – group size: ~20).
[LING2108: Språkendring]

University of Oxford

Graduate level

As primary instructor

2019–2020 Contemporary syntactic theory (lectures and classes – group size: ~12).

2019–2020 Introduction to syntax (lectures – group size: ~25).

As TA

2017–2018 Formal foundations of linguistics (classes – group size: ~25).
An introduction to set theory, logic, and formal language theory for linguists.

2015–2016 Introduction to syntax (classes – group size: ~25).

2014 Introduction to phonology (classes – group size: 12).

Advanced undergraduate level

2014–2016, 2019–2020 Syntax (tutorials – group size: 1–3).
[FHS Paper XII/B2]

2018–2019 General linguistics (tutorials – group size: 2–3).
[FHS Paper XIII/A] – A survey module which covers the development of linguistic theory since the 19th century.

2017–2019 Sociolinguistics (tutorials – group size: 1–3).
[FHS Paper XII/B5]

2018 Psycholinguistics (tutorials – group size: 1–3).
[FHS Paper XII/B4]

2014–2017 Semantics & pragmatics (tutorials – group size: 1–3).
[FHS Paper XII/B3]

First-year undergraduate level

2014, 2018–2020 Grammatical analysis (classes – group size: 3–6).
[Prelims Paper X] – An introduction to both syntax and morphology.

2014, 2018–2019 General linguistics (tutorials – group size: 2–3).
[Prelims Paper VIII] – An introductory course which covers topics in general linguistics proper, along with psycholinguistics, semantics & pragmatics, sociolinguistics, and historical linguistics.

2018 Psycholinguistics (lectures – group size: ~50).
For Prelims Paper VIII: General linguistics.

2017 Semantics & pragmatics (lectures – group size: ~50).
For Prelims Paper VIII: General linguistics.

Irregular classes

2016, 2018 Language and identity: the view from linguistics (class – group size: ~6).
An introduction to sociolinguistics for first year English language and literature undergraduates.
Handout available here.

2017 Corpus methods in sociolinguistics (graduate class – group size: 3).

2016–2017, 2019 LaTeX workshops: 'LaTeX basics' and 'Going further with LaTeX'.
Two workshops to introduce graduate students in linguistics to LaTeX.
Handouts available here and here.

Supervision

University of Oslo

Graduate supervision

2024 Jovana Knutsen. M.A. thesis. Title: t.b.c.

Undergraduate supervision

2024 Lene Marie Olsen. B.A. thesis (guest supervisor for LING3090: B.A. thesis seminar). Title: Idiomatic flexibility: an analysis of the idiom "a hill to die on".

2021 Tommy Zhang. Extended essay in syntax. Title: The concept of Function-Argument Biuniqueness in LFG & Glue and additional evidence from reflexives and complex predicates. M.St. in Linguistics, Philology and Phonetics.

2020 Chenyu Fang. Extended essay in syntax. Title: An LFG analysis of anaphoric reflexive (ta)-ziji in Mandarin Chinese. M.St. in Linguistics, Philology and Phonetics.

Undergraduate supervision

2020–2021 Caitlyn McDermott. Linguistic project (thesis with a large data collection/analysis component). Title: What are they talking about? A discourse analysis of US press coverage of mass shootings. B.A. in Psychology & Linguistics.

Grants and awards

June–Dec. 2023 Support for Researcher Mobility, Research Council of Norway.
Value: NOK 671,000. Funded a research stay at the Goethe-Universität Frankfurt am Main, including a concomitant extension to my postdoctoral contract.

May 2018 Scatcherd European Scholarship, University of Oxford.
Value: £1,000. Awarded, along with the following award, for a research visit to the Goethe-Universität Frankfurt am Main.

Mar. 2018 Santander Academic Travel Award, University of Oxford.
Value: £1,000.

Oct. 2015–June 2017 Professor Paul Slack Scholarship, Linacre College, University of Oxford.
Total value: ~£14,000 (fees for first 2 years of D.Phil.).

Oct. 2015–June 2017 AHRC Studentship, Faculty of Linguistics, Philology & Phonetics, University of Oxford.
Total value: £28,353 (living costs for first 2 years of D.Phil.).

July 2014 George Wolf Prize, Faculty of Linguistics, Philology & Phonetics, University of Oxford.
Awarded for best overall performance in the M.Phil. or M.St. degree.

June 2014 Graduate student essay prize, International Gender and Language Association.

Oct. 2012–June 2014 AHRC Studentship, Faculty of Linguistics, Philology & Phonetics, University of Oxford.
Total value: ~£38,000 (fees and living costs for M.Phil.).

Sept. 2011–June 2013 McCall McBain Fellowship, McGill University.
Total value: ~CAN$62,000 (fees and living costs for 2-year MA degree); partially declined.

Oct. 2008–June 2011 Casberd Scholarship, St John's College, University of Oxford.
Awarded for achieving a distinction in first year examinations. Total value: ~£900.
